He had taken the entire suite on the second floor of the establishment and the dinner was served in the tapestry room. Mr. Pyne was assisted in receiving his guests by his mother, Mrs. Moses Taylor Pyne.

There were several tables for dinner, each being decorated with lilies of the valley and pink roses which had been brought from the greenhouse of Drum-tweacket, the Pyne country place in Princeton, N. J. During dinner a Neapolitan orchestra played and sang, and after dinner while coffee was being served in the room that leads out of the tapestry room the Baroness von Rotenthal executed some Oriental dances, being brought into the room in a sedan chair by men in Louis XV. livery.
